Parents,

If you can read it, you can sing it! North Valley Academy will be incorporating choral music as an auxiliary extension of our performing arts program.

This literacy based program is a classic, yet effective way to get kids excited about reading! One of the most stirring research revelations that has turned up in recent years, suggests that early exposure to music education can have a rather profound effect on a child's academics (namely in math and reading). Learning to read depends upon acquiring a variety of skills—including phonological processing, oral language, and comprehension. This course will utilize popular and energetic choral music to practice and achieve the aforementioned skills, while having some fun in the process! If enrolled, students should be prepared to sing! We will be participating in monthly assemblies and will be putting on three major performances.

The NVA Eagle Choir will be meeting every Monday, beginning on October 27th in the Performing Arts room from 3:30-4:45. There is an initial class fee of $25 to cover the cost of NVA Eagle choir t-shirts. The class is open to students in 3rd -8th grade. We will be accepting the first 25 students who sign up, as we have limited staff to teach the class. If your student is interested in taking part in the program please send the following information to Amanda Greeves via email (agreeves@nvanm.org): Name of student, grade, parent/ guardian name and contact information. If your child is selected for the program you will receive a reply via email with other pertinent information and instructions. Refer any questions to Amanda Greeves, as she will be leading the NVA Eagle Choir.
